

I value an education.
But I don't want to break the bank.
Or pinch pennies.
Or go into debt for decades. And neither do my parents.

WE HEAR YOU.

Education at a South Carolina technical college costs 36% less than the average annual tuition of a four-year institution, and many of our high-demand programs are free. (You read that right — FREE.)

START COLLEGE HERE

Helpful human
standing by

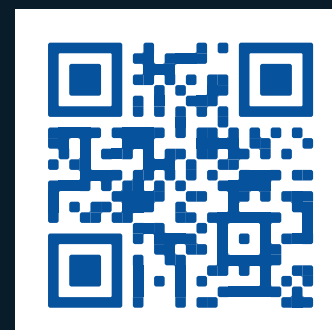

After I graduate high school,
I'm gonna have to work.
Full-time, part-time – I don't know yet. So if I do want to go to college, I need it to be close to home.

WE HEAR YOU.

Did you know that no matter where you live in South Carolina, you're within a 30-minute drive of one of our technical college's 16 main campuses or 64 satellite campuses?
So you can pull in that paycheck and still scoot over to your local college without a crazy-long commute.

START COLLEGE HERE

Helpful human
standing by

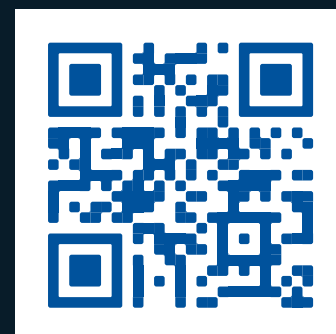

It feels like going to a four-year university – or sometimes, even a two-year college – is just pressing a great big PAUSE button on life. I'm ready to get started now! But I also don't want to make pennies at an entry-level job.

WE HEAR YOU.

Sounds like a bite-sized program is what you need. South Carolina's technical colleges offer more than an associate degree or transfer to a four-year university. You can earn certifications that make you more valuable to employers. You can become an intern or an apprentice, learn while you earn, and often have a guaranteed job when you finish. Or you can earn stackable credentials, which allow you to customize your education and enter and exit a program as you want or need to. Press PLAY, not PAUSE, after graduation!

START COLLEGE HERE

Helpful human
standing by

One thing high school has taught me is that learning is not one-size-fits-all. I like in-person classes. But I did pretty well when I took a VirtualSC course too. Are there hybrid options in college? I'm just not sure what would be best for me.

WE HEAR YOU.

Good news! South Carolina's technical colleges offer all three options, so you can figure out what works for you.

(Oh, and if you're questioning whether online learning would be a good fit, take the quick survey on our website. It will give you an idea of what it takes to be a successful virtual student.)

START COLLEGE HERE

Helpful human
standing by

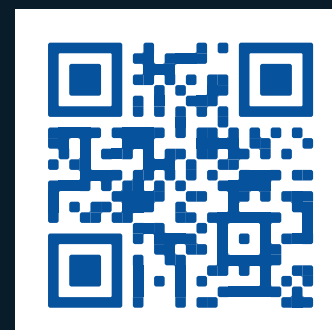

I've never applied to college before. I don't know what my next step should be, who to ask for help, or even what questions to ask.

WE HEAR YOU.

And that's okay – because we do. All you need to do is reach out and let us know what you need – even if that's everything.

START COLLEGE HERE

Helpful human
standing by

I want teachers who know their stuff and who know me. I'm up for a challenge, but I don't want a professor who's always talking over my head. I want to be a name and a face and a real person that they care about.

WE HEAR YOU.

Most of the instructors at a South Carolina technical college have real-world experience in their field. They know exactly what they're preparing you for – not some textbook version of reality. And like you, they're real people too. They hear you. They see you. And they're there to help.

START COLLEGE HERE

Helpful human
standing by

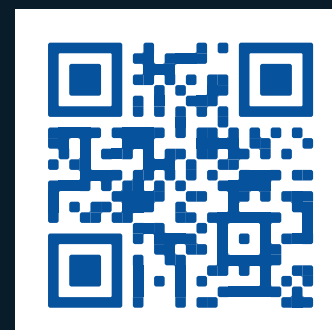

I don't want to take a bunch of classes that I don't need for my future. And I don't want my nose to be stuck in a textbook all the time. (Sometimes is okay.)

WE HEAR YOU.

Our technical colleges specialize in, well, specialized training. You can work alongside experts in your field, get hands-on experience, and network with potential future employers at the same time.

START COLLEGE HERE

Helpful human
standing by

Sure, an education is important to me. But I don't want to be JUST a student. I care about other things – serving my community, making friends, having fun, helping my family, taking care of my mental health.

WE HEAR YOU.

And you sound like just the well-rounded person we love to have at our technical colleges! We're here to support you – all of you. If that means you want to join a club, play a sport, get assistance from a food pantry, receive counseling, diversify your social circle, or volunteer, you can find plenty of ways to be more than JUST a student.

START COLLEGE HERE

Helpful human standing by