

School Threat Assessment Teams Development and Implementation

“In creating the School Safety and Resiliency Act (finalized on March 11, 2019), a group of legislators and advisors listened to voices across our Commonwealth. The requirement of school threat assessment teams is a significant key to keeping everyone in our schools safe and secure.”

- Jon Akers – Executive Director, KCSS

It is heart-breaking to learn about school shootings that could have been prevented if warning signs had been reported and investigated. In so many cases, somebody knew something about an impending attack.”

- Dr. Peter Langman, Warning Signs

The training through KCSS is available, free to Kentucky schools, and is about three hours in length. “Kentucky educators working with Kentucky educators” - our trainers make themselves available to school personnel long after the training is completed. Continued support of our threat assessment teams is what sets KCSS apart in this process!
